HUNT'S PILLS have never been known to fail in effecting two very gratifying results, that of raising from the bad of sickness and thus amply rewarding Dr. Hent for his long and anxious study to attain this perfection in the HEALING ART.

A Medicine that will perform what it promises, is a public benefactor, such DR. HUNT'S Celebrated Pills have proved themselves to be, by having been successfully tried in all parts of the country. A Medicine so compounded, that it produces a free circulation in the vessels on the surface of the body, cleanses and strengthens the Stomach, Liver, and Lungs, gives a healthy tone to all the Vicera, and by promot-ting the insensible, removes all febrile or inflammatory action, and imports muscular strength, energy, and vigerous health to the whole frame, must consequently be esteemed a pudlic beno-factor. They do not exhaust like diastic purges, still their action is more universal, and they ma be often repeated, not merely with safety, but with much benefit. SILK MANUFACTURING. One great reason why we have such an un shaken confidence in the ability of this country to enter successfully into the culture of sifk, its manufacture as well as its production, found in the superior enterprise, industry and ingenuity of our citizens over those of any part of the world. Great Britain thought to prevent the establishment of the cotton manufacture in this and other countries, by prohibiting, under severe penalties, the exportation of machinery, or patterns for its constaction. New England machinists went to work, built shops, made their own patterns, and produced specimens of machinery so much supirior in action and principle to European models, that we at once obtained the preference in their own market, and now annually export large quantities of muchinery to order. So it is already with machinery for the manufacture of silk. In reeling and now in weaving the narrow kinds of silk. such as laces, ribbons, and other goods of tha description, we have already made great advances on the clumsy and ilf-arranged implements of the old world.

In the manufacture of ribbons, which form so important a branch of the Lyons, or French silk manufacture, the foreign workman uses narrow loom, resembling the common hand loom in other respects, and weaving but one pieces of ribbon at a time. A machine, called in France a Jackquard, is attached to this narrow loom, and regulates the pattern of the ribbon flowers, &c. These looms are worked by girls and these delicate and beautiful fabrice are the result of their labors. A Jacquard was brough o New-York, and fell under the notice of Mr Bergen, and ingenious mechanic, and member of the Legislature. Mr. Bergen instantly saw that great improvments might be made in the machine and losm, and immediately construct ed one which is worked by power instead of the hand, makes seven pieces of ribbon or lace where only one was made in the Frenc's loom, and gives the figure color, or pattern with equal exactness and greater rapidity. In this single improvement of the ribbon loom, then, five or six-sevenths of the labor required abroad is whelly dispensed with, and articles of any patern can at once be furnished . In very narrow patterns, from ten to fifteen pieces can pe woren at once. Such improvements at the outset leave no room for doubt, but that when the attention of our artizans chall be directed to the manufacture of silk machinery, we shall soon find our improved processes amply to compensate for any supposed difference in the price of labor. Gen. Farmer.

A VISIT TO MR. M. L. SULLI VANT'S FARM.

During a late trip to the valley of the Scioto, we were much gratified with a visit to the farm of Mr MICHARL L. SUL LIVANT, near Columbus. This gentlemen has one of the most splended stock farming establishments in the United States. The homestead consists of four housand acres, most of which is as fine soil as ever the sun shone on. Mr. S. is deeply engaged in the stockbreeding line, and has imported within a ew years some of the best cattle and sheep to be had in England. He has about one hundred breeding, most cl which are of good blood and point and several of them belongs to the highest rank, both in lineage and qualities. His imported pull Talleyrand is a good one. He was from $50 to $250, perhead. He last year sold upwards of thirty calves at these prices .-Those of the best blood he values high-

The prices of fire at a cattle along the Scioto valley, appear to keep as bigh as ever. This shows the spirit there is for improvement. We incidently fell in with MR. RENICK, of Chillichothe, at Columbus, (the gentleman who went out to England for the purchase of the Ohio stock Company' catt'e,) and made some enquiries of him relative to a fine calf of his, called Paragon, which we had once seen. He informed us not he sold him when about eighteer months old, to some gentlemen in Kentucy, for seventeen hundred and fifty dollars! A higher price we believe, then any other animal of his age and species ever sold for in Amer-

Mr. S. has a few of the Dishley or New Leicester sheep, which he imported; and their fine heads, capacious chests, and broad backs, show that they are of the genuine stock. He has been unfortunate in having some of them kill. ed by dogs. How provoking to have a constant serowl upon her brows. A pleasant cheerful wife is a rainbow set in the sky, when her husbacks mind is to sed with storms and temperate but a dissatisfied and fretful wife in the heur of trouble, is like one of those fiends who delight to forture lost fine ewe which cost a hundred dollars, spirits, parberously destroyed by a worthless

cur, whose owner, if he can be discovered, is perhaps equally worthless!

Mr. S. has a an imported Spanish Jack of large size, from which he is receiving three hundred and fifty mules.

From one point on Mr. Sublivant's farm, may be comprehended at one view more growing breadstuff, (il indian corn may be so called,) then ever we beheld from any other spot. There are about five hundred acres of land in corn, lying as it were, in one body-the widest division (we believe,) being the National road. Four hundred acres of this corn belongs to M. Wm. Sullivant, and two hundred and fifty acres to

Mr. M. L. Sullivent.

We likewise visited the large cetablishment near Columbus belonging to the Ohio Silk Company, and new acocupied by Mr. A. H. Chew. The building erected for a control of tures appear a large scale, and all the fixtures appear ing erected for a cocoonery, &ce, is on to have been arranged on an excellent plan. Mr. is feeding silk worms, and has twenty acres of Morus Multicaulis, which looks finely.

The general appearance of crops on our route is good. Wheat is well filled and heary. Zanesville Gazette.

An Incident-An honest whig farme of the tewn of Brighton, who came to see the President, was heard to say, after the interview—"Well, I have heard Mr Van Buren accused of being an aristocral, of being an enemy to the middling classes of society, and an errogant oppressor of the people, of sping the manners of imperial royalty; but I am now satisfied that I have been deceived, that the self-constituted leaders of the whig party have grossly slandered him. And if ever I live to give another vote, that vote shall be for Marting Van Buren !'(Rochester Adver.

What's in a name.-They have a fashion in the Eastern states of calling their children after the prevailing fancies of the day, and it is no uncommon thing to hear a good matron addressing her brood in this wiset-"Come here, Devenshire, and take care of little Multicaulis, while Durham and Rohan go and call Lafayette, Ruta Bagga and their daddy to dinner...-Mannes Ex.

The following exact description of active and passive love, is from the Picayune. It fits a great many every night occurances, and those "who know will not fail to account it a most correct portrait:

"When a man stays out late at night gets corned, strolls carelessly home, goes whistling up stairs, and is met at the top by his 'cara sposa,' who combe his head and brandishes a broom stick, ' and uses her voice actively, that is love in the active sense. When a pretty girl takes a kiss with perfect compo-eure, and looks as if she woudn't care f she took two or three more, that is

Extreme Modesty .- A lady blushing at the sight of a stick with its bark off. What a pity Cept. Marryatt did not come across this lady. It would have furnished him with as good a story as that of the boarding School mistrees who would not allow the young ladies of her school to look at the bare legs of a table, but put a covering upon each one with a frill at the bottom to Great misances .- A correspondent of the East India Chronicle complains bitterly of the great number of elephants which infest the streets.

The Philadelphia; Times thinks there re nuisances nearer home. "Strangers visiting the city, are requested to beware of a species of long baired non des-cript animals with very long fingers that infest the resorting places; and often steal upon the innocent, and commit their depredations on the unguarded pocket book."

Rum, while in hogs heads, is capable of doing but little injury; but when it gets into men's heads-look out !

There is said to be a man in Vermont so tall that he cannot tell when his test are cold. And one in Maine so short that he cannot spit over his boots.

Why are Adam and Eve the oldest sugar planters? Because they were the first that raised Cain.

The cause of the ladies' teeth decaying at so much an earlier stage of life then those of the other sex, is attributed to the friction of the tongue upon them. But accoording to the Hartford courier, it is owing to the sweetness of their hipe as it is a fact well established by every body's say so, that sweet things rot the teeth!

There were several strikes during the last week on the Railroad works be tween here and Reading: some for higher wages, some for extra drams of whiskey, and some because some worked at lower rates than some others, and some because they wanted a little fun, Miners Journal

Cheerfulness in Wives.—Boz well remarks that a cheerful woman may be of great assistance to her husband in Business by weiring a cheerful smale continually upon her countenance. A man's perplexities and gloominess are increased a hundred fold when his better half
